Psychological Factors To Keep In Mind While Investigating

Confirmation Bias: The unwitting tendency to seek out evidence that supports a pre-conceived belief, and minimize or downplay evidence inconsistent with that belief.

Cognitive Dissonance: Individuals experience discomfort or tension due to contradictory beliefs or attitudes. When confronted with new information that challenges their existing beliefs, people may instinctively reject the new information to reduce psychological discomfort.

Overconfidence Bias: Individuals believing that their knowledge or beliefs are superior to new information presented to them. This bias can lead people to dismiss new information as incorrect or misguided without fully considering its validity.

Belief Persistence: Even when presented with evidence that contradicts their beliefs, individuals may continue to hold onto their existing beliefs despite being presented with contradictory evidence, often because their beliefs are deeply ingrained or emotionally charged.

Focusing Effect: The tendency to place too much importance on one aspect of an incident or event. There are typically multiple contributing factors, which are often dependent on each other, and investigators need to uncover and consider all possible factors.

Psychological Factors To Keep In Mind While Investigating

The Time Factor – Memory fades. The longer the delay between witnessing an event and recalling it, the more a person forgets, especially the finer details of the event.

Post-Event Information - A witness may have learned new information since first observing or describing an incident, which during later testimony is believed to be and is presented as knowledge he or she had at the time of the incident.

Recall (Reporting) Bias - A bias which occurs when the way a witness answers a question is affected not just by the what actually occurred, but also by the witness's prior memories, which can get associated with the recent incident.

Perception Factor - The witness viewed the incident in poor light, at night, against back lighting, from a great distance, in the fog, or very briefly, and thus had limited or impaired perception.

Attention Factor - Distractors that draw attention away from the incident, doing something else at the time, many people being present, or distractive noise, causes information to be missed.

Unfamiliarity Factor - Unexpected events or unfamiliar circumstances limit the mind's ability to absorb all of the information associated with the event. Expected events or familiar circumstances are already in our memory, and require less bandwidth to absorb the new information.
